NEWSPAPERARCHIVE® NEWSPAPERARCHIVE® FARM AND HOUSE. COMMERCIAL FERTILIZERS.

Ville claims that chemical fortilizers are superior to farm manure for several reasons: (1) They bring larger crops. In proof of this he cites soveral hundred experiments made by agricultural schools, societies, and private individuals, on wheat, oats, rye, barley, maize, potatocs, sugar-beets, sugar-came, etc., in France, Belgium, Germany, Italy, and other countries. In 51 experiments with wheat, in which chemical and farm manures were compared, the chem icals brought larger crops in 47, less in 3, and the same in one case. In 92 experiments with sugar-boots the artificial fertilizers brought the best results in 67 cases, the dung in 20 cases, and both the same in 5 cases. In 32 experiments the same in 5 cases. In 32 experiments with potatoes, the chemical manures brought more than horse-manure in 25, less in 6, and the same in 1,—(2.) The chemical fertilizers are cheaper. To substantiate this, he makes extended emparisons between the cost in France of farm manure and the corresponding abenical materials, and calculates that the manure is the dearer by some six per cent.—(3.) Chemicals are always at command, and in just such kinds and quantities as are needed, the only limit being the amount of capital to be invested.—(4.) The ingredients of chomical manures are ready for use at once, while in yard-manure they are slowly available.—(5.) Chemical manures are more easily and cheaply transported, hundled applied.—(6.) Chemical manures can be divided so as to use for each crop its predominant regulating ingredient, and in each case only what is needed. Thus, in a relation, nitrogen can be used for wheat or onts, phosphates for corn, or turnips, and potash for clover. Or, if the soil supplies enough of any one ingredient for my crop, it can be omitted from the fertilizer and its cost saved.

the issues the sowing of the seed is well done. There are several points to be studied:

The Fitting of the Soil is of the greatest importance. Whent requires a fine mellow soil for the seed, and a light soil to be well compacted about the sowed grains. If any vacant phenes are left, as would be were the soil cloddy, the rootlets being exposed to air, will dry and perish. Therefore, after plowing cultivate, or harrow repeatedly until all the clods are made hue.

The Surface Soil may be lumpy and sunewhat rough, but the lumps should not be so large as to prevent the spires of whent reaching the surface.

The linder Should be Used immediately after the plow, to break up the lumps then the cultivator and harrow will finish the work. This is the proper use of the toller. Its misses is to roll the ground after the seed has been sown, thus leaving the surface packed down thus leaving the surface packed down thus leaving the surface backed down thus leaving the surface packed down the soll constitution of the roller. Its misses is to roll the ground after the seed has been sown, thus leaving the surface packed down thus leaving the surface packed down the surface packed down the surface packed down the soll has been should be surface packed down the surface packed down the same and solid, in which state it will crust over after the first shower.

An Out or Hardey Should be lived the received the sponger of containing nitrogen of points to roll the sponger of the right kind of lood, and in such a condition as to be really absorbed. The first should be lived feel, which is known to have a remarkable effect on the development of the young rootlets—may be used with safety and comparative certainty.

It is a matter of little consequence as to the acreage which is put in, in this or that grain, in this or that crop; it matters very little how much a farmetre states on his farmethe important question is how much he raises one hundred bushels of wheat on four acres will become a well-to-do, independent farmer, if met a rich man, if hy does not meet with extraordinary misfortune; but the farmer who raises one hundred bushels of wheat on twelve acres is on the direct road to poverty, and undoubtedly will become poor if he lives long enough and raises wheat enough. — Exchange. LABOR SAVISH MACHINERY.—A late manber of the Scientific American has a well written article on the subject of labor-saving machinery. It denies that these machines are driving people out of work. Statistics show that the carnings of sewing women have greatly increased since the introduction of sewing machines, and that the innuber of hersons who make their living, by sewing have increased in a greater ratio than any other class of the population. The numerons agricultural machines by increasing the extent of the cultivated hads and the value of farms, have caused a rapid increase in the number of farm laborers. In fact, wherever labor-saving machinery is introduced into any trade or pursuit, an increase in the number of employees and the value of the aggregate products is sure to follow, and wages will be proportionately higher. In Ohio and the neighboring Western States where there has been a heavy gain in productive machinery, the increase in the number of working the interest of the country. The value of the manifactured products of Ohio in 1870 works $259,718,009, in 1875 this value had grown to $100,000,000. The cotton gain, which was first invented, has been the means of giving employment to thousands of persons who would never have tomathed the cultivation of cotton throughout the Country. The value of the strain of the country. The value of the rease of giving employment to thousands of persons who would never have tomathed the cultivation of cotton throughout the Southern States, and created a demand for thousands upon thousands of men and women. Railroad and steamboat traffic have both had the same effect, although when they were that instituted they were greatly decried.

PUTTING UP CUCUMBERS.—This is the way to put up occumbers to have them remain without using poison to accomplish it. Wash your cucumbers taken fresh from the vine, in clear, cold water; put them in a porcelain kettle, with just enough water to cover them and add enflicient sait to season the encumbers. Let them remain on the stove till hot, but not boil; then take them out and drain till perfectly dry. Put them into bottles and cover them with boiling vinegar of the best quality, to which has been added some red peoper, some mustard seed, a little horse radient, and sngar just to suit the take. Cucumbers prepared in this way, if good vinegar is used, will keep a whole year if properly sealed up. Culery-seed should be added to all pickles.

SARATOGA CHIPS.—A Boston exchange says:—The manufacture of Sarador i fried pontatoes, or chips, as they are now called, has become quite a bast nest. Heretofore this luxury was rarely tound outside of a few batels and first-class restaurants, but loads of pathoes are now sold every week for the production of this article, and Saratogy truel putatoes are to be found at all insteclass groceries, and are on tha tribles at most of the summer hotels at the mountain and seaside. The manufacturers prefer the variety of polatoes called Jackson whites, for their production of chips, and the principal sales of these potatoes are for this use. Geren Tomato Preserves. - Eight panuls small green tomatoes (pietce each with a fork) seven pounds sugar, the juice of lour lemons, ginger an mace sixed, one ounce. Heat altogether slowly, and boil until the fruit's cear. Take it from the kettle in a perforated skymmer, and spread upon dish, put it's tomatoes in vour jars and pour it over them bot. Keep in a cool, dry place. These are particularly nice, and take much like foreign preserves.
